1. It's National Midwifery Week!

This year, we're celebrating Midwives at the Table: Practice, Policy & Research because midwives don't just care, they lead, advocate, and innovate.

Join us all week as we amplify midwives' voices in every space that shapes healthcare.

2. Midwives are more than birth attendants, they are clinicians, educators, researchers, and policy changemakers.

Let's bust the myths and uplift the facts.

Tag midwives below who shape better outcomes at every level of care.

4. Behind every life-saving decision is research, and midwives are generating it.

From reducing maternal mortality to improving access in rural care, midwives are driving evidence-based change.

Let's fund, cite, and celebrate midwifery research.

 Who's a midwife scholar you admire?

5. If you're making health policy and midwives aren't at the table... you're missing critical insight.

Midwives are advocating for:

- Reproductive justice
- Equitable access
- Workforce inclusion
- Community-centered care

Policy change starts with inclusion.

6. Midwifery doesn't stand alone, it collaborates. Across disciplines, communities, and borders.

This #MidwiferyWeek2025, we honor the partnerships that elevate midwives at every table.

Tag a midwifery ally who deserves recognition.

7. This week, we celebrated midwives in practice, policy, and research — and reminded the world:

🗽 Midwives deserve a seat at every table.

Thank you for raising your voice, sharing your story, and fighting for better care.

Let's keep building. Together. 💛
